SECTION 1: INTRODUCTION ABOUT THE CURRENT SITUATION 1.1. INTRODUCTION

Nakhchivan State University (NDU) recognizes the inseparable link between organizational culture (OC) and corporate ethics (CE), shaping the core values and operations of our university. Organizational culture is defined as shared values, beliefs, and behaviors that influence the work environment and the behaviors of our internal stakeholders. These values, shaped through the participation of our students, faculty, and staff, define the identity and working environment of our university. On the other hand, corporate ethics encompasses principles that delineate between right and wrong behaviors. For Nakhchivan State University, adhering to accepted ethical principles and values is crucial. These principles guide individuals and employees toward right actions and uphold the reputation of our university.

In this context, Nakhchivan State University's Holistic Ethical Organizational Policy (HEOP) serves as a vital tool to promote ethical behavior within the institution and mitigate potential unethical conduct. HEOP provides clear guidance on ethical behavior to students, faculty, and other internal stakeholders, strengthening our university's organizational culture. Reflecting NDÜ's values and commitments, this policy also embodies our responsibilities to society and supports the sustainable success of our university.

1.2. CURRENT SITUATION

NDÜ is actively working to strengthen and enhance the relationship between organizational culture and corporate ethics. Continuous efforts are made to educate and raise awareness among employees, students, and other stakeholders about ethical values. However, there is a need for improvement in certain areas within the current situation. In some departments or among individuals, inconsistencies regarding ethical behaviors may be observed, indicating that organizational culture is not fully implemented or corporate ethical principles are not thoroughly understood. This policy aims to progress NDÜ in these areas and further strengthen its organizational culture and ethical values. Accordingly, efforts will be made to address and improve identified weaknesses in the current situation, in line with the principles of transparency, accountability, and continuous improvement.

1.3. LEGAL BASE

NDÜ Ethical Organizational Culture Policy is prepared in full compliance with the relevant laws of the Republic of Azerbaijan and international standards. Our university reflects its commitment to protecting fundamental rights and freedoms as defined by the Constitution of the Republic of Azerbaijan and other relevant legal regulations. This policy will fully comply with the laws and regulations operating in Azerbaijan. Specifically, it will adhere to relevant laws such as the Azerbaijan Labor Code and Occupational Health and Safety Law concerning employee rights and ensuring workplace fairness. Additionally, internationally accepted standards and commitments will be considered, including provisions of international documents such as the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work.
